Drivers Education Passing Rules

Car being passed: Point the car by on either side. Stay on your line. Back off on the throttle as needed to let the passing car by. Do not brake. Only point by where you are comfortable being passed. If the car behind you chooses not to pass where you pointed them by, they may not be comfortable passing you there. Check your mirrors and point them by at the next opportunity.

Passing car: It is your responsibility to complete a safe pass by the start of the braking zone. If you are not comfortable taking the pass, DON'T take it. Wait for the next point by. You will go off line to take the pass. Be aware that you may be off-line when starting your turn, adjust your speed accordingly.
